PREFACE.

The present Cénus is the second one that has been taken in this State, by persons appointed by the Secretary of State, and reporting their labors in full without summary or condensation. The preparation of results from these data, is done at this office, and in the present Census about thirty-five clerks, on an average, have been employed during fifteen months.

In each Census preceding that of 1855, the persons making the inquiries were appointed by the local city or town authorities, and the summaries prepared by each were forwarded to the county clerks. The latter prepared a table for their respective counties, by towns, cities and wards, which they forwarded to the Secretary of State for publication. Under this system, the only labor required at the central office was the construction of a general summary for the State, and the supervision of the press-work. But this method involved unlimited chances for error, against which there could be no remedy, and the change of the system, which was made in 1855, after mature consideration, has been justified in the results.

The present Census was taken under peculiar difficulties, occasioned by the late war. Our people had, during the last two years, been subjected to searching inquiries after those liable to military conscription, and at the time when the blanks and instructions for the Census of 1865 were in press, a draft for half a million of men was pending in the loyal States. It is more than probable that had the war continued, this Census could not have been taken, especially in the large cities, from the impossibility of finding men who would be willing to incur the odium and peril of a labor so nearly like that of a military enrolment, and so liable to be confounded with the dreaded army conscription.

Until the present occasion, the persons taking the Census had been styled Marshals, but as this term had recently become associated with the office and duties of Provost Marshals, the Legislature, at the suggestion of my predecessor, changed this appellation to that of Enumerators, as more truly expressing their duties, without the suspicious meaning which the former term might have conveyed.

But the war happily ended before the enumeration of the present Census began, and many of the difficulties which had been apprehended disappeared. Notwithstanding this, suspicions still lingered in the minds of the ignorant, in densely settled localities, and many could not believe but that some scheme of military service lay concealed beneath these inquiries. This jealousy led to embarrassments and short returns in many cases.

The immense expenditures of the war brought the burden of a heavy debt upon the country, which could only be met by taxes upon property and productive incomes, and novel schemes were devised by Congress for raising these revenues. As the Census makes inquiries concerning the amount of capital invested in manufactures, the cost of materials and labor, and the value of products, it incidentally discloses the profits of business, and the amount of incomes. The utmost difficulty was therefore found in many cases, in arriving at a correct return upon these several subjects. Men otherwise intelligent, would often fail to discern, or profess to disbelieve, that the Census was not in some way connected with taxation, although the instructions to Enumerators were specific and full upon this subject, and the erroneous imputation was expressly disclaimed therein.

The law requires one or more Enumerators to be appointed in each ward or town, the number being left discretionary with the Secretary of State, who makes the appointments. As a general rule, one Enumerator was appointed in each election district; but where these districts were large, and especially in cities, they were subdivided by some street, river or well known line. In the City of New York an estimate of the population, by single blocks, was taken upon the basis of families, through the Board of Metropolitan Police, and the information thus obtained afforded the basis of the appointments.

The labor of selecting Enumerators, and of procuring the returns, was performed under the direction of my predecessor, Mr. Depew, with the most scrupulous attention to the public good, and returns from each of the two thousand three hundred and thirty-two Enumerators were received in time to present a general summary, embracing the details required by the Constitution, at the beginning of the Legislative Session of 1866.

The clause inserted in the law in 1865, rendering the payment of Enumerators dependant upon acceptance of reports at this office, was found to operate most beneficially, by imposing an additional sense of responsibility, and the power was used whenever found necessary in perfecting the returns.

As the war terminated in the interval between the nomination of Enumerators and the beginning of their labors, the changes of business and plans which followed, led to an unexpected number of resignations. But most of those letters declining to serve, were accompanied by recommendations for other persons suitably approved, and only occasioned the additional labor of correspondence. The number of changes from all causes, during the period of taking the Census, was four hundred and thirteen, of which several were from sickness or death occurring after the returns were partly prepared. It is believed that no duplications or omissions have been thereby occasioned, as, where the successor did not receive the unfinished work, he was directed to commence anew.

Disappointment has been expressed in some localities, upon the announcement of the results of this Census, as coming below former estimates, and sometimes below the returns of the last Federal Census. It would indeed have been an incident flattering to national pride, had we been able to show that the extraordinary efforts made by the loyal States during the late war for the maintenance of the Union, had not retarded our prosperity or checked our growth. But apart from the difficulties above referred to in obtaining accurate returns in some localities, such a conclusion is not warranted by facts, and the State of New York, in common with several of the other States in which a census was taken in 1865, presents, in the returns, indications of the effects of the war in the increased number of widows, and the reduced number of males within the ages liable to military service.

The sum of fifty thousand dollars was appropriated to defray the expenses attending the preparation of the present Census. The labor has been completed at a cost of more than ten thousand below the appropriation, and the balance has been applied towards defraying the printing the final report. The original returns of this Census, filling one hundred and three massive volumes, with six folio volumes of special blanks, and fourteen volumes of specimen numbers of newspapers and periodicals, are placed in the State Library for preservation.

The immediate labor of preparing and distributing the blanks and instructions, the correspondence during the time when the Enumerators were engaged, and subsequently the collection and certifying of the returns, the final supervision of the office labors, and preparation for the press, have been performed by Dr. Franklin B. Hough, who also had charge of the corresponding labors of the Census of 1855. His ability, fidelity, and thorough knowledge of the subject have deserved my warmest commendations.

FRANCIS C. BARLOW,

Secretary of State.

ERRATA.

In several of the first pages of Agricultural Statistics, a few errors in the totals of counties occurred, which were corrected in the Recapitulation by Counties. The latter should therefore be used in making references to these statistics.

On page 397, the columns for "Acres Sown," of buckwheat, should be corrected to read 240,300½ for 1864, and 184,716½ for 1865. |

On page 401, add 2,141 to the number of milch cows kept in New York city, and the same to the total.

On page 402, add 23,880 horses, and 649 mules to the numbers for New York city, and increase the totals of the columns by these sums.

INTRODUCTION.

THE history of the earlier returns of statistics of population, with many details connected with the subject, were given in the Introduction to the Census of 1855. It is, therefore, deemed sufficient to place, in this connection, the following general results, and to refer the reader to the volume of 1855 for more extended statements.*

Two attempts were made to obtain a census during the revolution, but only fragments of the returns exist. In 1786 a law of Congress made an enumeration of the population incident to a scheme for equalizing the public indebtedness. The total population of New York, under this census, was 238,897.

CENSUS OF ELECTORS.

The first State Constitution, adopted in 1777, provided that, as soon after seven years from the termination of the existing war, as might be practicable, and at intervals of seven years subsequently, an enumeration of electors, under their several classes, should be made, as the basis for an adjustment of the representation in the Senate and Assembly. Under this requirement of the Constitution, a census of electors was taken in 1790, 1795, 1801, 1807, 1814 and 1821. The results being given by counties, in the volume for 1855, we here insert only the general and comparative results of the State:

SLAVERY IN NEW YORK.

Negro slavery existed from an early colonial period, and was sanctioned by statute under the State Government. During the Revolution, a law was passed by which slaves enlisting in the army, with the consent of their owners, should become free. In 1798, a law was passed for the gradual emancipation of slaves, and on the 31st of March, 1817, it was enacted that slaves born after July 4, 1799, should be free; if male, at the age of 28; or if female, at the age of 25. Those born before that period were to remain slaves for life. The Revised Statutes of 1828 made a final ending of the system, by enacting that all men were free within the State, except in punishment for crimes of which convicted.

The general results of six several returns, embracing statistics upon this subject, are condensed in the following table :

CENSUS OF NEW YORK CITY IN 1805 AND 1816.

In 1805 a city census was taken by order of the common council of New York, in connection with the return of jurors, under the "Act for regulating trials and issues, and for returning able and sufficient jurors," passed* March 31, 1801. This enumeration was made to ascertain the influence of a recent epidemic upon the population of the city, and was as follows:

* In the colonial censuses, free blacks were not distinguished from slaves. The total number of negroes was 2,170 in 1698; 2,258 in 1703; 6,171 in 1723; 7,763 in 1731; 8,941 in 1737; 9,107 in 1746; 10,592 in 1749; 13,548 in 1756, and 19,863 in 1771. A census of New York city, taken by municipal authority, in 1805, reported 2,048 slaves, of whom 818 were males. Another, in 1816, reported 617, of whom 228 were males. The number of females of this class has been uniformly greater than that of males.
† Included in the preceding columns.
‡ Of the white population of this ward, 520 males and 110 females were in State Prison.

§ Of the white population of this ward, 80 males and 117 females were reported in the Almshouse.
¶ This total is corrected to correspond with the data given in the preceding columns of whites, free colored and slaves. As published, the total by wards, involved the following errors: Fourth ward, 704; fifth, 626; sixth, 1,670; seventh, 817; eighth, 1,162; ninth, 395, and tenth, 1,725. Total, 6,599. The sum of the column of totals is given in published returns as 100,619, which exceeds the amount of the figures above it by 386.

FEDERAL AND STATE CENSUS ENUMERATIONS.

By a requirement of the National Constitution* a census of the republic is taken at intervals of ten years for the purpose of ascertaining the proper ratio for apportioning representation in Congress among the several States, and for obtaining other information necessary to intelligent legislation. Under laws passed in pursuance of this requirement, a Federal census has been taken in 1790, 1800, 1810, 1820, 1830, 1840, 1850 1860.

The State Constitutions of 1821† and 1845‡ provided that a census of the population should be taken every ten years for analogous purposes. The volume here presented is the fifth that has been published under this authority. The years upon which the State census is taken are in the years whose unit figure is 5. By this arrangement we obtain a census at uniform intervals of five years, and alternately by State and Federal authority.

In the following tables the total population of each county at each census period is given, together with the percentage of increase or decrease of each from the last preceding Census. If it has been a decrease, the fact is indicated by a minus sign before the number expressing the percentage. The latter is not carried into decimals, but given in the nearest whole number.

* ARTICLE I, SECTION 2.—“Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative.”

† ARTICLE I, SECTION 6.—“An enumeration of the inhabitants of the State shall be taken, under the direction of the Legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and the said districts [referring to Senatorial districts mentioned in a previous section] shall be so altered by the Legislature, at the first session after the return of every enumeration, that each

Senate district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants, excluding aliens, paupers, and persons of color not taxed; and shall remain unaltered until the return of another enumeration, and shall at all times consist of contiguous territory; and no county shall be divided in the formation of a Senate district.”

‡ ARTICLE III, SECTION 4.—“An enumeration of the inhabitants of the State shall be taken, under the direction of the Legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and the said districts shall be so altered by the Legislature, at the first session after the return of every enumeration, that each Senate district shall contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants, excluding aliens and persons of color not taxed; and shall remain unaltered until the return of another enumeration, and shall at all times consist of contiguous territory; and no county shall be divided in the formation of a Senate district except such county shall be equitably entitled to two or more Senators.”

* New York was divided into seven wards in Gov. Dongan's charter of April 22, 1685. The wards then formed were named West, South, Dock, East, North and Montgomerie wards. The results of a city census, taken in 1805 and in 1816, will be given elsewhere.

† In 1865, but after the census appointments had been arranged, the city of Lockport was erected, and organized into five wards. There still remains a town of this name.

POPULATION OF VILLAGES.

The appointment of Enumerators in the present Census was generally made upon the basis of election districts, which seldom coincide with the boundaries of village corporations. As it was desirable to ascertain the population of villages separately, the following instructions were given to the Enumerators:

"In cases where a district lies in an incorporated village, the fact should be stated in the margin. If a part of the district is within an incorporated village, a memorandum should be made of the beginning and end of the village entries, so clearly that a person not acquainted with the names or localities can make no mistake in determining who reside within the village bounds.

"If an incorporated village lies partly in other districts, or in two or more towns or counties, state the fact in the entry, and give the number of such district, if in the same town, or the name of such towns and counties, other than his own, in which such village is located, BUT GIVE ONLY THE POPULATION OF THE PART WHICH IS IN THE DISTRICT HE IS ENUMERATING. These parts being added together at this office, will give the aggregate population of the villages.

"There are many villages of considerable size which have never been incorporated, and consequently have no definite limits. In all cases where such a village has a well established name, by which it is known in the country around, the Enumerator should enter its population in the "Remarks," on the last page, using his own discretion in deciding the limits of the village, and stating, if the fact, that it is situated partly in two or more districts, whose numbers or names he should give."

The following table contains all that could be determined upon this point, and presents comparative returns of the two census enumerations. It is to be regretted that any blanks should have occurred. The list will be found useful for reference, by showing the towns and counties in which villages are located.

SEXES.—The relative number of males and females in any country at a given period, depends much upon the amount of migration from or into the country, and upon circumstances tending to the encouragement of particular classes of the population. As a general rule, newly settled countries show an excess of males; and under some circumstances, as in the earlier period of settlement in California, the proportion is enormous.† But as a district becomes occupied to the extent of its agricultural capacity, and inducements are presented for emigration to other sections, the proportion of females is greater, and in all the New England states except Vermont and in Maryland and New Jersey, this condition was found in 1860 to exist.

* Exclusive of those who have other homes at which they would be enumerated.

† In 1850, the Census reported 85,580 males and 7,017 females. In 1860 there were 259,923 males, and 98,187 females.

The results of inquiries extended over a large area, and embracing long periods of time show that the number of males born, is somewhat greater than that of females, the excess being from one in fifteen to one in thirty. In this State, in the absence of a system of registration of births, we have no data for reliable estimates upon this subject. At each Census in which the sexes have been reported, there appeared an excess of males, until 1855, when the females were found in excess, and this condition was shown in the returns of 1860 and 1865. In the present Census, the excess of females is 61,536, or about one in thirty-five, and the relative decrease of the males, must in a great degree, be ascribed directly or indirectly to the late war.* The casualties of the service were heavy, and the return of peace was quickly followed by the emigration of many young men to the south-western and western states.

In the present Census, the number of males is found to exceed that of the females, in Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Clinton, Delaware, Essex, Franklin, Hamilton, Lewis, Niagara, Oswego, Rockland, Steuben, Sullivan, Ulster and Warren counties. The percentages given on page xlviii will show the relative excess of each.

AGES.—The relative distribution of the population through the different periods of life, is found to differ somewhat in the present Census from the numbers reported in 1855, and this change appears most among males, and within the years in which military service was required in the late war. The next Census will probably show this difference extended into an advanced period, until at length the generation that participated in these events shall have passed away. The difference is but small, but it is distinctly perceptible. The following table presents the total and comparative numbers for the State, at the two periods:

The comparative distribution of ages in 1865, is shown to the eye in figure 2, of the diagram on the opposite page, which is also interesting from its showing an error in the returns, due altogether to causes beyond the control of the Census Law, or the power of correction in the Census Bureau. We refer to the sudden turn upwards at 45—50 in the line of males, which is obviously occasioned by an over statement

*A French statistical writer, in noticing the causes which vary the proportion of the sexes, remarks: "The principal of these causes are wars, emigration, the effect of unhealthy occupations, perils of the sea and of navigation, mining, and whatever else tends to greater mortality among men than women. These influences must be very powerful, since they in fact neutralize the law of nature, which gives an annual excess of one male in every sixteen births annually, and moreover reduce the number of men at times much below that of women. We can appreciate the extent of this influence when we observe, that in the Archduchy of Austria, the number of females exceeded that of the males by a fifth in 1810, and that in Vienna in 1819, it was almost double."—Moreau de Jonnes, Elements de Statistique, p. 309.

of the age, when giving the returns to the enumerators. As the line for females presents no such deviation from the regular descent, we can only suppose that apprehensions of a draft, or fear of some enrollment for military service, may have been thought associated with the census inquiries. This census reports an increase of numbers of those over one hundred years, as given in the returns of 1855.* The number of males and females in 1855 and 1865, reduced for purpose of comparison to a uniform period of ten years, is shown in the following engravings. The scale on the left hand of each diagram represents percentages

* The number of persons reported as having attained or passed one hundred years of age is 108, being 10 more than in 1855. Of these, 51 are males and 57 females. Their native places were, United States, 48, and foreign, 49. Of the former, 31 were born in the State of New York, 11 in New England, 3 in Pennsylvania, 2 in Virginia and 1 in Maryland. Of the latter, 26 were born in Ireland; 6 in Germany, 4 in England, 2 in France, 1 in Scotland and 10 in Canada. Of 11 the place of birth has not been given. The county of St. Lawrence, as in the last Census, gives a larger return of these advanced ages in proportion to its population than any other in the State.

of the total population. It will be seen that while they have a strong resemblance in most of their course, the widening out and extension of the space between males and female between 20 and 50, clearly indicates the withdrawal of many males at this period of life from the general population, and marks the influences of the late war in reducing the number of our young and middle-aged men.

A change in the proportion of the sexes at different periods of life, in some degree analagous to that here indicated for 1855, has been observed in all countries where statistics have been obtained. While the number of males is greater in childhood, we usually observe a change to an excess of females at a more advanced age, and the relative number may slightly vary at a later period, but with us, showing a slight excess of females in extreme age. The difference is however so small, as scarcely to be noticed in the enlarged scale on figure 2 of the plate on the opposite page.

Ages of Children—In the present Census an attempt was made to obtain such data as might enable us to show the number of children born each month, since the beginning of the war. To this end the instructions directed as follows: "If the person be a child under four years old, the entry is to be made by the fractional parts of a year, or a whole number for the year and a fraction for the months, thus: one month, 1-12; two months, 2-12; three months, 3-12, three years and a half."

For those under one year the returns presented a tolerable degree of uniformity, and afforded the data for the following table by counties. But above one year there was shown a strong tendency to report the even years only, omitting the fractional excess. We however present the aggregate sum by months, rather to exhibit the practical workings of the inquiry, than as a valuable result. In the general table of ages, this tendency to report the nearest even years constantly appears, and may be traced in every Census hitherto taken, and under every government that has hitherto published these results in detail.

The following table shows approximately the number of children born in each month during the preceding year. As the Census has reference to the 1st of June, "under 1 month," would represent the births of May, 1865, "one month," those of April, and thus in reverse order through the years.

* The small number reported for this month is probably due to the fact that children of the age of eleven months were commonly reported as a year old. The latter numbered 12,685 males and 12,712 females. The inequality for December, representing six months, and a less marked irregularity at three months, shows the inevitable tendency for the return of round numbers. Nothing short of a thorough and constant registration of births, soon after they occur, will ever give results of value in this class of vital statistics.

The last column in the preceding table, representing those "twelve months" old, manifestly includes great numbers who exceed that age by one or more months. This is especially noticed in the months between four and five years, where the fractional excess being reported voluntarily, and without instructions was generally omitted, and the whole year only given.

NOTE.—The order in which the names of members of each family were entered, commencing with the parents, and extending down through the names of the children, beginning with the oldest, afforded the means of ascertaining the number of twins living together in families. No instructions were given concerning this entry, and the accidental occurrence of equal age and common parents, as shown by the returns, has afforded the basis of the results given in the following table. In 1855 these were classified under the age of twenty years: in 1865 they embrace the whole period of life.

In 1855 four cases of triplets, all females, were reported. In 1865 the number of cases of triplets was twenty-three; of which three were all males, thirteen two males and a female, four two females and a male, and three all females.

In 1865 two sets of four children of equal age and the same parents were reported, of which one set was three and one eight years old. In one case all were females: in the other two were of each sex.

Number of Children in Families.—From the manner in which the names of members of a family were uniformly reported, with the relation of each to the head of the family, an opportunity was offered for ascertaining, with some degree of accuracy, the number of children under twenty-one years of age residing with their parents or guardians, the number of adopted children and the number of grand children. By deducting the total number of families, thus found, from the general total of families the number without children was ascertained. The following table presents the results of this classification :

Relative Increase of Population, with Women of American and Foreign Birth.—In the present Census an inquiry was first introduced having this object in view. The column was headed, "Of how many children the parent?" The instructions gave the following directions for reporting it: "This inquiry is to be made only of adult females, and usually of wives or widows. It should, in all cases, include the number of living children the woman has borne, whether now living or dead, and whether present or absent from the family. These children may perhaps be themselves the heads of families, and residents of another State, or they may have died in childhood. The object of the inquiry is to obtain data for determining the natural increase of the population in this State among the various classes, and it should be taken fully and uniformly to possess value. Be careful to note in this column the number of children borne by females now aged, as well as that of those now surrounded by their families. We can thus determine the relative rate of increase of a former age, for comparison with the present."

These statistics were reported very uniformly, and quite as fully as could have been expected. They afford the following comparative totals and summary, by counties:

Number of Children Borne by Women of American and Foreign Birth.

One woman was reported in the town of Mamaroneck, Westchester county, who had borne twenty-two children and raised them all, having twins at three different times. She had been married but once.

A woman in the Sixteenth ward of New York was reported as having borne four children at one birth, three on two occasions, and twins four times. In all, she had been the mother of twenty-five children.

NATIVITIES OF THE POPULATION.

With the exception of the returns of immigration made at custom houses, we have no official statistics of the sources of our population earlier than those obtained by the State Census of 1845, which gave the following numerical and relative results:

In the Federal enumerations of 1850 and 1860, and in those made under the State authority in 1855 and 1865, the place of birth of each person was reported. The following table gives the general summary and percentage of each State and country under these several returns:

The sources of population in the State of New York, with the exception of the small and unimportant fraction remaining of the Indian tribes, are almost entirely European. The proportion of those of African descent never exceeded two and one-third per cent., and is steadily decreasing.

Although it is impossible at this period to trace back through more than two hundred and fifty years, to the beginning of first settlement, and assign to the several European countries their due share in originating that portion of our population which we call "native," a few general remarks will serve to indicate in a proximate degree, the principal sources of our people, and the localities that they settled. The careful observer will often find among their descendants, to this day, many of the distinguishing traits that characterized the original emigrants.

Hollanders.—These formed the first settlements of New York, Albany, Schenectady, and several points along the Hudson, the principal of which were at Schodack, Kingston, Rhinebeck, Esopus, Fishkill and Yonkers. They also formed settlements on the western end of Long Island.

English.—The greater part of Long Island, Westchester county, and the country bordering upon the Hudson below Albany, were first chiefly settled by English, and the population of New York, Albany, and other places already founded by the Dutch, were largely increased from this source, acquiring in a few years the numerical ascendancy, and gradually displacing the language and customs of the first settlers.

Germans.—Under the patronage of Queen Anne began permanent settlements on the Hudson, East Camp, Livingston, Schoharie, and along the Mohawk as far west as German Flats. Many of this class immigrated about ten years before the Revolution, and settled along the Mohawk Valley.

French.—Huguenots found an asylum in the colony of New York, at New Rochelle, New York city, Staten Island and New Paltz, in which localities family names of this origin are still common.

During the French occupation of Canada they established a flourishing settlement on Lake Champlain, near Crown Point, which was subsequently entirely destroyed. Soon after the revolution several hundred refugees, mostly of French origin, sought the protection of our government, and received a grant of land in Clinton county. The massacre of St. Domingo, and the French revolution, drove many French exiles to our State, and several schemes of settlement were formed, but mostly proved unsuccessful. The most important of these was that undertaken by a stock company, under Pierre Chassanis, on the Black river, but after a few years struggle against difficulties which they were unprepared to overcome, they abandoned the enterprise. The northern border, and especially Clinton county, contains a large number of Canadian French, who have settled in our State within a few years.

Scotch.—Near the close of the colonial period, a settlement of this people was begun in Washington county. Subsequently other centers of settlement in St. Lawrence, Livingston, and other counties were established.

Welch.—Early in the present century a large number of Welch settled in Oneida county, from whence they have spread into adjoining counties.

An examination of the summary of nationalities by counties, given in the following pages, will inform the reader of the present distribution of the foreign element throughout the State.

In tracing the movements of our population, the influence of New England in giving origin and character to the early settlements of the northern, central and western portions of the State, will attract the notice of the most casual observer. Immense tracts of land, including the entire region west of Cayuga lake, and extensive districts on the southern border, the Chenango, Delaware and the Black rivers, were purchased by and settled under New England men, whose descendants still form an important proportion in the population of these sections of the State. In the absence of numerical data, it would probably be an approximate estimate to assign the proportion of those of English origin direct, to those of English ancestry from New England, as ten to one, in the existing population of the State.

The westward tendency of migration, comparing counties of different meridians within the State, or the State itself with reference to those lying east or west of it, is strikingly apparent, and an examination of the general summary of the nativities of the population (page 183 to 191) will present scarcely an exception to this generalization. A few examples will serve to illustrate:

Born in Rensselaer, living in Oneida.....	602
Born in Oneida, living in Rensselaer	277
Born in Broome, living in Chemung	224
Born in Chemung, living in Broome	49
Born in Dutchess, living in Chautauqua.....	275
Born in Chautauqua, living in Dutchess.....	16

The present census shows a relatively greater number born in the State than in 1855, and a corresponding decrease in the foreign element.

It will be noticed that the greatest increase of the population, is in the cities and towns along the great thoroughfares of travel, and traffic, and in towns and cities, where, favored by conveniences of transportation and markets, unlimited encouragement is given to trade and manufactures. The capacity for profitable occupation is soon reached in agricultural regions, and this result is hastened by the introduction of labor-saving machines, and by dairying and stock raising, which employ fewer laborers than the tillage of grains. Already the returns of the census indicate that this capacity has been attained in many of our counties; and in the future growth of the State we may rationally anticipate a relative decrease of agriculture, as compared with the growing importance of manufactures and commerce, to which we can anticipate no limit, as in the former, the fortunes of this State are linked with all the rest, and in the latter, they extend to every foreign country. The centralization of population appears to be governed by principles analagous to those which determine the investment and accumulation of capital, and will be found greatest where it is found most profitable. The interest of individuals thus becomes the controlling agency, whose general aggregates make up the results shown by the census.

CIVIL CONDITION.—Of this we have no data for comparison excepting the census of 1855, which reported as follows, as compared with the present :

	Number.	Per cent
1855—Single	2,082,618	60.08
Married	1,253,015	36.15
Widowers	35,397	1.02
Widows	95,182	2.75
1865—Single	2,211,170	57.77
Married	1,433,864	37.43
Widowers	44,804	1.17
Widows	137,980	3.67

This relative increase of widows may properly be ascribed to the late war, and is one of the sad traces left in the statistical annals of that event.

The following comparison with other countries is interesting in this connection:

PROFESSIONS AND OCCUPATIONS.—The occupations of 994,829 persons, or 28.70 per cent. of the total population, were reported in 1855. In 1865 the number thus reported was 1,117,181, or 29.18 per cent. of the total. A comparison of the number at each period, in each occupation in which the number exceeded 500 at either period, is here given:

USUAL PLACE OF EMPLOYMENT, IF OUT OF THE CITY OR TOWN WHERE THE FAMILY RESIDES.—This inquiry was first introduced in the State Census of 1865, but with a result too meagre to justify its repetition, unless in local statistics, and for special purposes. A classification was only attempted for the counties upon the Hudson, and on Long Island and Staten Island. The result may be concisely stated as follows:

VOTERS AND ALIENS.—The qualifications of voters are defined in Article II. of the Constitution of the State, as follows:

“Section 1. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years who shall have been a citizen for ten days, and an inhabitant of this State one year next preceding an election, and for the last four months a resident of the county where he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident, and not elsewhere, for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elective by the people; but such citizen shall have been for thirty days next preceding the election, a resident of the district from which the officer is to be chosen for whom he offers his vote. But no man of color, unless he shall have been for three years a citizen of this State, and for one year next preceding any election, shall have been seized and possessed of a freehold estate of the value of two hundred and fifty dollars over and above all debts and incumbrances charged thereon, and shall have been actually rated and paid a tax thereon, shall be entitled to a vote at such election. And no person of color shall be subject to direct taxation unless he shall be seized and possessed of such real estate as aforesaid.

“Section 2. Laws may be passed excluding from the right of suffrage all persons who have been or may be convicted of bribery, larceny, or of any infamous crime; and for depriving every person who shall make, or become directly or indirectly interested in any bet or wager, depending upon the result of any election, from the right to vote at such election.

“Section 3. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence, by reason of his presence or absence, while employed in the service of the United States; nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this State, or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student of any seminary of learning; nor while kept at any alms-house, or other asylum, at public expense; nor while confined in any public prison.

“Section 4. Laws shall be made for ascertaining by proper proofs the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established.”

The State Constitution was amended in 1864, by a vote of 258,795 to 48,079, so as to embrace the following additions:

* * * “Provided, that in time of war, no elector in the actual military service of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from the State, and the Legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which, the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the canvass and returns of their votes in the election districts in which they respectfully reside, or otherwise.”

The present returns show an aggregate of 823,484 voters, of whom 583,611 are native, and 239,873 are naturalized. The percentage of voters to the total population is 14.98, or 1 to 4.65. In 1855 the percentage was 12.59; in 1845 it was 12.96; and in 1835 it was 10.86. The relative increase of this class is due to a modification of the law facilitating naturalization in certain cases.* The result is strongly indicated in the diminution of the alien class, which in 1855 numbered 632,746, or 18.54 per cent., while in 1865 it was but 399,463, or but 10.43 per cent. of the total population.†

* In most cases those due to this class were only noted in the column of occupations as “sailor,” “mariner,” etc., without noticing this column also.

The number of electors has been made a prominent subject of inquiry in every census hitherto taken by the State, and under the Constitution of 1777, this class was made the basis of representation in the two houses of the Legislature. As their number is given by counties in the Introduction to the Census of 1855 (pages ix-x), it is deemed sufficient in this connection to give only the general totals of the State. To these we add the percentage to the total population computed from the federal censuses of 1790, 1800, 1810, and 1820.

* An Act to Define the Pay and Emoluments of certain Officers of the Army, and for other purposes. Passed July 17, 1862.

SEC. 21. "That any alien, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who has enlisted or shall enlist in the armies of the United States, either the regular or volunteer forces, and has been or shall be hereafter honorably discharged, may be admitted to become a citizen of the United States, upon his petition, without any previous declaration of his intentions to become a citizen of the United States, and that he shall not be required to prove more than one year's residence within the United States previous to his application to become such citizen; and that the court admitting such alien shall, in addition to such proof of residence and good moral character as is now provided by law, be satisfied by competent proof of such person having been honorably discharged from the service of the United States as aforesaid."

† The privilege of naturalization was granted in our colonial period, by an act of the General Assembly, and after the formation of a State Government, by the Legislature, down to the period when this act of sovereignty was surrendered to the National Government, upon the adoption of the Federal Constitution. The colonial statutes embrace, from 1718 to 1775, the names of 1,071 aliens who were thus naturalized, and the State laws prior to March 4, 1789, 569 names. For many years afterwards it was customary to pass laws giving limited rights of citizenship in the holding of lands. Under an act passed April 21, 1825, aliens are allowed to hold real estate, and become liable for all taxes, duties and assessments, and for the performance of military duty, in the same manner as citizens, upon filing in the Secretary's office a declaration of their intentions to become naturalized. They do not by this become capable of voting or holding office, or of serving as jurors, excepting in cases of a jury demedietate lingue being summoned. Down to March, 1863, inclusive, 10,482 males and 6,261 females had availed themselves of this privilege.

† From 1790 to 1814 inclusive, the above numbers include those who were freemen in New York on the 14th day of October, 1775, and in Albany on the 20th day of April, 1777. The latter date was that upon which the first Constitution went into operation. The great expansion of numbers in this class in 1821, was due to a modification of the form which included "free male inhabitants who were citizens of the State, of the age of 21 or upwards, who were not possessed of freeholds, and who did not rent tenements of the yearly value of $5, but who had been actually rated and paid taxes to this State, or who had enrolled in the militia or in a uniform company of this State, and served therein, either as an officer or private, or who had done service in any way which by law exempts from taxation or military duty, or who had been rated and actually paid highway taxes by commutation or by labor." The Constitution adopted in 1821, extended the elective franchise so as to include this class. In 1826 the Constitution was amended by abolishing property qualifications of white voters. The popular vote for extending the franchise was 127,077 to 3,215.

Under the Constitution of 1777 only those owing freeholds worth £100 ($250), either by their own right, or that of their wives, were entitled to vote for governor, lieutenant governor and senators. The others might vote for representatives in Congress, or Assembly, and for local officers. In 1845 the property qualification for office was abolished by a vote of 114,900 to 3,901. The Convention for revising the Constitution in 1846, submitted the question of "equal suffrage to colored persons," to the popular vote, and it was decided adversely by a vote of 85,306 to 223,834. This class, by the laws of the State, must, in addition to the qualifications of white electors, possess a freehold clear of encumbrance worth $250, and must have resided three years within the State.

In 1860 the question of equal suffrage to colored persons was again submitted to a popular vote, and decided in the negative by a vote of 197,503 to 337,984.

It will be interesting to compare the above results of enumeration with the official statements of the state canvassers, showing the numbers that actually exercised the privilege of voting, by counties, and for each year since the removal of the property qualification of voters, by an amendment of the Constitution in 1826. In preparing the following table, the votes given for governor on alternate years, those for senators on the intermediate years previous to 1846, and those for Secretary of State since 1846, have been taken. The total votes for all regular candidates, and the scattering votes are included. A diagram illustrating this subject is given opposite page lvii. of this volume.

* Under the first State Constitution the State was divided into four Senatorial districts, and one-quarter of the whole number of Senators were elected annually.

Under the Constitution of 1821, there were eight Senatorial districts, each represented by four Senators, one of whom was elected annually.

Under the Constitution of 1846 there are thirty-two Senatorial districts, each represented by one Senator, who holds his office two years, the whole number being elected on alternate years.

The Senatorial districts formed upon the basis of the present Census are defined by chapter 805, Laws of 1866, as follows:

First. Suffolk, Queens and Richmond counties.
Second. 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 7th, 11th, 13th, 15th, 19th and 20th wards of Brooklyn, Kings county.

Fourth. 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 13th and 14th wards of New York city.

Fifth. 8th, 9th, 15th and 16th wards of New York city.

Sixth. 10th, 11th and 17th wards of New York city.

Seventh. 18th, 20th and 21st wards of New York city.

Twenty-eighth. Monroe county.

† Until 1846 each county (except Hamilton) elected one or more members of Assembly annually, by general ticket, the number to which the county was entitled being designated from time to time by law. Since 1846 the counties have elected as before, except that now where entitled to more than one member, they are subdivided into single districts by the supervisors on the year following that on which the State Census is taken. By chapter 607 of the Laws of 1866, the following apportionment of members was made:

Albany	4	Onondaga	3
Cattaraugus	2	Ontario	2
Cayuga	2	Orange	2
Chautauqua	2	Oswego	3
Columbia	2	Otsego	2
Delaware	2	Queens	2
Dutchess	2	Rensselaer	3

Kings	9	Steuben	2
Madison	2	Ulster	3
Monroe	3	Washington	2
New York	21	Wayne	2
Niagara	2	Westchester	3
Oneida	4

All other counties have one member each, excepting Hamilton, which is represented with Fulton.

PERSONS OVER TWENTY-ONE YEARS OF AGE WHO CANNOT READ AND WRITE.—The present Census followed the precedent of 1855, with the additional entry of an initial or other abbreviation for marking those who could read in a foreign language and not in English. The total number of illiterate was reported at 95,865, and was distributed by counties and nationalities, as shown by the accompanying table:

INQUIRIES CONCERNING SUCH INFIRMITIES AS MAY BECOME A PUBLIC CHARGE, FOR EDUCATION, MEDICAL TREATMENT OR MAINTENANCE.—In former Census enumerations, a column for entering the words “Deaf and Dumb,” “Blind,” “Insane,” or “Idiotic,” opposite the name of such persons as might happen to be thus afflicted, afforded the only opportunity for ascertaining statistics concerning these unfortunate classes.

In the present Census, an attempt was made to obtain much more ample details upon this subject, and for this end, a special table was provided on the last page of each population blank. A narrow column upon each page, afforded a chance for reference to this special blank, where the additional facts desired were reported 44,452, or 1.87 per cent. of the white population who were unable to read and write. In the United States the number was 549,693, and the per cent. .387. In 1850 these numbers were 91,293 for New York, and 962,898 for the United States, the per cent. of the former being 2.99, and of the latter, 4.92. The period of twenty-one years was taken as the limit of inquiry in this table, because persons are entitled to participate in the apportionment of school moneys up to that age, by the existing laws of this State.

* The miscellaneous column embraces the following totals of counties not included in the table, viz.: Africa, 7 m., 132 f.; Austria, 16 m., 14 f.;

Bavaria, 37 m., 49 f.; Belgium, 38 m., 35 f.; Bohemia, 9 m., 13 f.; British Possessions, West Indies, &c., 75 m., 82 f.; Chili, 2 m., 4 f.; Cuba, 7 m., 5 f.; Denmark, 34 m., 15 f.; Hamburg, 1 m.; Hanover, 12 m., 7 f.; Holland, 187 m., 122 f.; Hungary, 7 m., 4 f.; Italy, 109 m., 98 f.; Mexico, 4 m., 5 f.; Norway, 20 m., 15 f.; Poland, 136 m., 103 f.; Portugal, 37 m., 18 f.; Prussia, 158 m., 167 f.; Russia, 20 m., 16 f.; Saxony, 8 m., 9 f.; Spain, 33 m., 12 f.; Sweden, 55 m., 37 f.; Switzerland, 155 m., 166 f.; Europe, country not specified, 7 m., 7 f.; at sea and unknown, 55 m., 82 f.

concerning these classes were recorded. By this method, there were obtained, in addition to the usual personal statistics of the individual, the following:

1. The particular kind of Infirmary, as Deaf and Dumb, Blind, Insane or Idiotic.
2. The Duration of Infirmary, if recent, in months, or if congenital "from birth."
3. The cause, if known, with as much specification as possible.
4. The relatives that had been similarly affected, with the view of determining the influence of hereditary causes.
5. Treatment in an Asylum or, special institution, public or private, and the result of such treatment.
6. Dependence for support, whether upon public or private means, and if partly upon each, a fraction denoting such part.
7. Ability to earn a living by labor, or if partly dependent, a fraction indicating degree of ability.
8. Residence in a poor house or other public charitable institution for maintenance of the infirm.
9. Whether accustomed to solicit alms.
10. Remarks, including any circumstance peculiar to the case, or instructive as showing cause, the influence of intemperate habits in the individual or his parents, &c.

The method was successful in its operation and could not well be improved, unless by repeating the special blank, at the foot of each page, with a space of one or two lines in each, for receiving the additional references of the page, and thus in a great degree avoid the occasional (but very uncommon) accident arising from a mistake in the reference.

In classifying the results of these particular inquiries, no attempt was made to keep distinct by counties the facts relating to hereditary influences, causes, age at which the infirmity commenced, number under medical treatment, dependence for support, maintenance in charitable institutions, &c. These data collected for the whole State, are below. Those relating to sex, civil condition, nationality, age and occupations, are tabulated by counties on pages 210 to 221, in the body of the volume.

It should be remembered that these inquiries were addressed by non-professional men, and often answered by those who had but an imperfect knowledge of the true causes and sometimes of the history of the case. It would therefore be found impossible to guard against errors in the original reports in some instances, nor could the causes assigned for the infirmity be in every way free from the influence of ignorance and superstition. Taken, however, with these allowances, they are probably the best that can be obtained by the Census, and must form the basis of generalizations upon this subject, until means are provided for arriving at the facts by a more exact and specific method.

Deaf and Dumb.—The number of cases reported was 1,600; of which 876 appear to have existed from birth; 20 occurred in infancy or youth, and 25 in more advanced years without cause assigned; and of 679, the supposed cause of the infirmity was given.*

* The following classification of congenital cases makes up the number of this class:

The causes assigned for this infirmity were classified with the reference to the age when it began. This was obtained by subtracting the number in the column headed "duration in years" from that in the column of "age." These causes are sometimes primary, and at others secondary; but will be mostly recognized as sufficient for producing a permanent loss of the sense of hearing.

Insane.—The number of cases reported was 3,114. There were found many cases in which it was difficult to decide whether an entry should be made as insane or idiotic, and, in view of this, the instructions gave the following advice:

“In general, if a person is reported to be erratic on some particular subject, yet attends regularly to his business, and provides for his family, without evincing to any ordinary observer special symptoms of insanity, he should not be entered as insane. Eccentricity and enthusiasm often border on insanity, and the dividing line is sometimes obscure. The subject is left to the discretion of the enumerator, who, with the facts before him, will, in most cases, draw a just inference.”*

Idiotic.—The number classed as idiotic was 1,541, of whom the infirmity had existed from birth in 957 cases, of which 565 were males, and 392 females. In 251 males and 243 females the cause was unknown. The same difficulty was found in this class as with the insane, in determining where they should be classed. The instructions gave the following rules:

"Idiocy is a natural want of development of the mental faculties. Dementia is a loss of faculties once possessed. Either of these terms may be used, but where the latter occurs in old age, by the natural decay of the vital powers, and after a life of intelligence it should not be entered in this table. In general, a person capable of self support and the transaction of ordinary labor, should not be classed with the idiotic, although his grade of intellect may be below the general average. Many idiots are capable of a useful degree of education; it is therefore desirable to obtain full statistics of this class, although a certain degree of delicacy may attend the inquiry."

The influence of consanguinity in producing idiocy has been often remarked, but never before the present, has any specific inquiry upon this point been included in a census. The returns now published show more or less consanguinity in 219 cases.*

* Including the idiotic.

† The New York State Lunatic Asylum, at Utica, reported 472 patients, and 103 other persons, including the superintendent and his family. Of the former 246 were males, and 226 females. The ages of the male patients were as follows: Under 20, 6; between 20 and 30, 63; between 30 and 40, 68; between 40 and 50, 43; between 50 and 60, 27; over 60, 12; unknown, 27. The ages of the female patients were: Under 20, 6; between 20 and 30, 67; between 30 and 40, 61; between 40 and 50, 44; between 50 and 60, 30; over 60, 11; unknown, 7.

MARRIAGES.—In the absence of an efficient system of registration, in constant operation and enforced by legal provisions, in which the validity of the marriage contract is made to depend upon its record, we can scarcely hope to arrive at even proximate statistics upon this subject, through the agency of the census. The inquiries made by the enumerators in 1865, were similar to those in 1855, and both are manifestly deficient in the number returned. The imperfection of the returns is much more apparent in the cities, while in the rural districts it may be supposed to approximate very nearly to the actual number.

Although not claiming full credence for the actual number, the returns of one census and of one region, may be assumed to present results of equal relative value, as compared with another, and in this sense these become important elements in the study of vital statistics. The supposed uniformity of the returns of marriages in 1865, as compared with those of 1855, accidentally afford a most interesting opportunity for examining the influence of the war, and of the withdrawal of immense numbers of young men from the State, upon the number of marriages contracted within the preceding year. The results are stated in detail in the accompanying table, and in a diagram facing page lvii.

It is interesting to observe that a subject so entirely dependent upon the will of the individual, is found when applied to the masses of the population to be subordinate to a general law, which is scarcely less determinate in its operation than that of death itself. Among a given population we may with certainty predict, that a proportionate number of deaths will occur. With equal probability, we may predict that a certain number of people will marry. As the number of deaths is liable to variation, year by year, with the presence or absence of epidemics or other causes affecting human life, so the number of marriages may fluctuate under the influence of war, emigration or reasons of prospective plenty or want.*

The returns of 1855 and 1865, enable us to deduce many interesting facts for comparison of the actual and relative ages of persons marrying. In 1855 the mean age of the husband was reported by the census as 27.69, and of the wife 22.62 years. In 1865, the mean age of the former was 28.45, and of the latter 23.27. It will be observed that females marry earlier and more rapidly than males; but that after passing the age of 22, the number of males of a given age that marry is greater. It will also be noticed, that the majority of young men who marry at an early age, select partners older than themselves, but that after three or four marriagable years are passed, the man in most cases selects a younger woman for a wife. The exception above noticed, appears in every census fully taken, and will find abundant verification with every person who has carefully observed this feature of social life. The table given on pages 222 and 223, presents many strange contrasts of youth and age, and numerous exceptions to general rules. The comparative age of those who were reported as having been married during the year preceding this and the last census, are given in diagram No. 6 on the plate facing page lvii.

Number of times Married.—A column, with this heading, was provided in the present Census, and the enumerators were directed to enter therein the figures 1, 2, 3, &c., as the case might require, opposite the name of each person now married, widowed or divorced. The inquiry had never before been made in the Census, and although most of the returns were full and satisfactory on this point, the defects of others tended to impair the accuracy of the result. The classification, embracing only those that claimed entire confidence, was continued until it represented 2,777,478 of the population. Upon this basis the following percentages were prepared. The decimals extend to three places, and 100 represents the total husbands :

	Wives' first marriage.	Wives' second marriage	Wives' third marriage.	Wives' fourth marriage.
Husbands' first marriage	83.509	2.536	0.074	0.004
Husbands' second marriage	7.829	2.812	0.142	0.008
Husbands' third marriage	0.595	0.356	0.050	0.003
Husbands' fourth marriage	0.041	0.033	0.006	0.001

Of the widowers reported, 87.764 per cent. had been married once, 9.991 twice, 1.029 thrice, and 0.099 four times.

Of the widows reported, 92.902 per cent. had been married once, 8.117 twice, 0.061 thrice, and 0.041 four times.

DEATHS.—Inquiries embracing the cause of death were first introduced in the National Census in 1850, and in the State Census in 1855. In 1865 this inquiry was limited to the deaths occurring in civil life, and excepted those happening in the military or naval service of the United States. A special blank was prepared for the latter, which embraced headings adapted to the particular wants of the subject. The results of this special inquiry, are given in the appendix to this volume in connection with the military statistics collected by the present census.

The instructions give the following directions for recording deaths that had occurred in civil life during the previous year:

“ This table should include ordinary or accidental deaths in civil life, during one year. The inquiries should be answered by surviving members of the family, if the death occurred at home, but not otherwise. They should in all cases be reported in the town where they occurred. Strangers, travelers and persons not residing in the State, should be reported as belonging to the hotel or family where they died. The superintendents, keepers or managers of prisons, hospitals, asylums or similar establishments, should give the number that have died during the year in their respective institutions. Enumerators should take care to learn by inquiries of Coroners and otherwise, the whole number that have been found dead. The end of these inquiries being to ascertain the whole number of deaths within the State during the year ending June 1, 1865, care should be taken by each enumerator to embrace all such as have died in his district ; but in no case, except that in the following paragraph, should a death be noted that has occurred out of his district, although of a person belonging to a family residing within the State, or even of those whose remains have been brought home for interment.

“ In cases where families have removed from the town or city in which the death occurred, the inquiry should still be made of the family of such person if dying in such family, within the State, and a note should be made in the margin giving the name of the town or city in which such family resided at the time of the death of such person. Under the head of “ remarks,” on the last page, state any local or epidemic causes which may have varied the results from those of common years, and any epidemic diseases to which the district may be subject.” * * * *

“ Disease or cause of death.—Great care should be taken to get reliable information from the best sources within reach, and if necessary, by consulting the physician who attended upon the case, as to the particular disease of which the person died.

“ If the death shall have been produced by any other cause than disease, the cause of death should be stated, as “ drowning,” “ railroad accident,” “ falling from a building,” “ suicide by hanging,” “ legal execution,” “ murdered by shooting,” “ accidental shooting,” &c., as the case may be.

“ If unable to learn the cause of death, as in cases of some persons found dead, write “ unknown,” “ found dead,” &c., using such term of expression as shall suit the case. Enumerators having hospitals or other institutions of unusual mortality in their districts, should at once notify the Secretary of State, when they will be furnished by mail with blanks for fuller entries of deaths; than the average supply.”

The total number of deaths reported under the above instructions, was 46 297 in 1855 ; and 37,297 in 1865.* With a full knowledge of the comparative merits of the two enumerations as regards general care

*A considerable number of deaths occurred in the prisons for rebel prisoners at David's Island, in New Rochelle, and at Elmira, which could not properly be included in the mortality statistics of the present census, even had they been fully reported. These persons being citizens of other States, would not have been entitled to enumeration as a part of our population if living. If their deaths had been included in the general returns, they would impair the value of the percentages of the town and county, and indeed of the whole State, by increasing in an accidental and undue proportion, the relative amounts due to the localities where they occurred. An order of the War Department, precluded the enumerators in common with all other persons, from access to the records of military hospitals, and although returns were, notwithstanding this, received from one of the largest of the rebel prisons, it was deemed proper to yield to the known wishes of the Government by omitting these details.

As an item of medical interest, we will however here present the percentages of diseases and other causes of death, reported as occurring in the prison alluded to.

and accuracy, and making reasonable allowance for the deaths reported in the military returns, and which might have happened to the individual had he remained in civil life. We have no hesitation in stating our belief, that the Census of 1865, was, in this respect, taken with increased care. The "remarks" that accompany each report, although too diversified for classification or summary in the great majority of cases, represent the preceding year as one of unusual health. The only epidemic of particular importance reported was diphtheria, a disease which from being unknown in the mortality statistics of former years, has come to number thousands annually as its victims among the population of our State.

Deaths from Consumption, classified by Nationality, Age, Sex and Season.—The following table embraces all the facts reported concerning this disease, and includes the various complications in which it was mentioned as “measles and consumption,” &c. The absence of a record of months, age or other circumstance, renders the totals somewhat different from the number (6,041) given by counties, on pages 244—245 of this volume. It is to be remarked, that the cases reported as occurring in early childhood, or advanced age, are very liable to error, but we have not felt at liberty to attempt any correction, Many of the former were probably marasmus, or other infantile disease, while the latter were often perhaps but the natural decay of the vital powers.

DWELLINGS AND FAMILIES.—The present Census followed the form of that of 1855, and sought to obtain the material and value of every dwelling.* The result, as compared with the last Census, shows a great increase in the number of stone and brick houses, and a corresponding decrease in the number of log cabins. The details, by towns and counties, will be found on pages 254—273, but are in the present case extended to include in a separate table the number of unoccupied dwellings.

In 1855 there were reported in the thirteen cities 2,346 houses of stone, 48,318 of brick, 54,933 framed, 79 of logs and 1,692 other. In 1865 there were — of stone, 5,192, worth $98,590,950; of brick, 62,048, worth $425,966,345; framed, 66,856, worth $126,766,333; of logs, 130, worth $158,890; and of other, 4,472, worth $2,796,928. The number of families in 1855 was 663,124, with an average of 5.23 persons to each. In 1865 the number was 790,931 and the average 4.80.

In 1855 the number of families exceeded that of houses by 140,799, while in 1865 this excess was 196,886, indicating that of these numbers two or more families resided in the same house.

* Comparative Statistics of Dwellings in 1855 and 1865.—Perhaps the most perplexing difficulty that arose in the course of the present Census, was the exact construction that should be placed upon the term “dwelling.” This embarrassment arose from the fact that buildings, partly or chiefly used for other purposes, are often the dwelling of families. A block of stores and offices, or a manufactory of great value, may have one or more tenants in the attic or basement. As one of the obvious purposes of the inquiry is to ascertain the comparative opulence of the people in their domestic accommodations, it is obvious that the result would be seriously impaired by including them, while the aggregates for obtaining the average number of families to a house would be deficient without them. The instructions directed as follows:

“By a dwelling house is meant a separate inhabited tenement, having one or more families under one roof. Where several tenements are in one block, with walls either of brick or wood to divide them, having separate entrances, they are each to be numbered as separate houses, but where not so divided they are to be numbered as one house.

“If a house is used partly for a store, shop, office, or for other purposes, and partly for a dwelling house, it is to be numbered as a dwelling house; but where used for lodging only, it is not. Hotels, poor-houses, hospitals, (excepting military hospitals), asylums, jails, penitentiaries, houses of refuge, and other similar institutions, are each to be numbered as a dwelling house.

“In these cases, write perpendicularly below the number the name or description, as “hotel,” “poor-house,” &c., as the case may be.

“It is desirable to ascertain facts concerning uninhabited houses. You will therefore make the entries prescribed in columns 1, 2, 3, for all such, and leave the remainder of the line blank. * * * The value is to be estimated so as to include the lot on which such dwellings are built, if in a city or village, but not otherwise. It should not include buildings other than dwellings, unless so connected as to form an essential part of a dwelling. The estimate should refer to present value with reference to location, but without reference to assessed value or original cost.”

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

The earliest attempt to procure Agricultural Statistics throughout this State, was made by the Society for the Promotion of Agriculture, Arts and Manufactures,* in 1791. In their first Circular Letter addressed to the friends and promoters of Rural Economy, they proposed a series of queries under eleven different heads, viz: Manures; Soils; Tillage; Stock; Grain; Grasses; Fruit trees; Forest trees; Vermin; Bees and Silk Worms and Manufactures. Under each of these were embraced several questions having reference to the increase of profit, improvement in cultivation, the introduction of new methods, the prevention, treatment of injurious tendencies, and the increase and diffusion of correct knowledge upon all subjects bearing upon the productive industry of the State.

In 1819, a Board of Agriculture was incorporated by the State Legislature, and in 1820 it addressed a Circular of Inquiries, in pamphlet form, to the several County Societies formed under its auspices, embracing in four schedules a great variety of questions requiring numerical returns and descriptive statements. With the exception of an able and carefully prepared "Statistical Report of the County of Albany, for the year 1820," by John Preston, there was no attempt made to collect and arrange the materials required in these interrogatories. In 1821, Agricultural Statistics were first embraced in the State Census, including only the number of acres of improved land, and the number of neat cattle, horses and sheep. In 1825 and 1835, the same inquiries were used, with the addition of swine to the list of domestic animals.

In 1840, the number of horses, mules, cattle, sheep and swine, and the value of poultry were ascertained. The number of bushels of wheat, barley, oats, rye, buckwheat and corn, the pounds of wool, hops and wax, the bushels of potatoes, the tons of hay and of hemp and flax, the pounds of sugar made, and cords of wood sold, the value of the products of the dairy, orchard, and market garden, the gallons of wine made, and the number of men employed, and capital invested in nurseries, were also ascertained.

In 1845, to the above inquiries in reference to live stock and amount of product of the cereal grains and root crops, was added the amount of land devoted to each separate crop. The censuses of 1850 and 1855 adopted similar inquiries, in addition to which, the latter provided for the return of unenumerated articles of farm produce, and the amount, kind and value of special manures employed. The summaries of the earlier returns are given in the introduction to the Census of 1855. It is therefore deemed sufficient in this connection to compare the totals of the Census of 1855 with those of 1865, and to present the aggregates and summaries of the last two Federal enumerations:

*This Society was formed prior to the "Board of Agriculture," in England, which did not obtain its charter until August 23, 1793. Their sphere of inquiries included: Geographical circumstances—climate. Soil—minerals, water. Estates—tenures. Buildings—houses of proprietors, farm houses, offices, cottages. Occupation—size of farms, rents, leases, expenses, profits. Implements. Enclosures—fences, gates. Arable lands—tillage, rotation of crops; grass; gardens; orchards; woods and plantations; waste lands; improvements; live stock; rural economy; political economy; obstacles to improvement; miscellaneous observations. The County surveys formed under the impulse of this society, fill 64 volumes. The Royal Agricultural Society of England, was formed in 1840.

† The area of the State, according to Burr's Atlas, is 28,297,142 acres. In 1865, 27,556,165 acres (exclusive of cities) were assessed. The Census takes no account of any but agricultural lands, and, therefore, is much below the above. The difference may be found in the lands occupied by cities, villages, roads, yards and grounds around buildings (not cultivated with farm crops), land under water, and waste lands not reported by the enumerators.

The total assessed value of real estate in the State, in 1865 was $1,160,848,745.

Unfortunately for favorable returns, the Census of 1865 embraced the crop of a season unprecedented for the length and severity of its drouth. The early spring months of 1864 were attended with heavy rains, and the floods which they occasioned, especially in the Genesee Valley, were quite destructive. These rains were followed by a drouth, commencing in the first week in June, and continuing till September,* It was most injurious in the northern and western parts of the State, and in some of the western counties the injuries from this cause were further increased by clouds of grasshoppers, which consumed the little herbage that the drouth had spared. Under a clear sky and a burning sun the earth became parched and cracked to quite a depth. Grain and pasture fields became scorched and dry, and the spring grains were in numerous localities an entire failure. Meadows, from the start they got in the spring, were less injured than had been apprehended, and the heavy fall rains brought forward the potato crop to a full average, and sometimes an abundant yield. In some cases the rot appeared after this crop was harvested, which was attributed to their rapid growth. These autumnal rains rendered it difficult to harvest the bean crop, and occasioned extensive losses in those counties where it is principally cultivated. Hops were in many localities injured, and often destroyed, by an Aphis, or plant louse.

Disease among Farm Stock.—Enumerators were directed to report, in connection with agricultural statistics, such facts as they might ascertain relative to epidemic diseases among domestic animals, with the number of deaths and recoveries, the season when they occurred, the symptoms of disease, and such modes of treatment as had proved successful. These inquiries proved nearly barren of results.*

Cheese Factories.—A special blank was prepared for including returns from this branch of industry. It included the name of manufacturer or company, date of beginning, cost of buildings and apparatus, average number of men and women employed, average and greatest number of cows, day of beginning and ending for the season, cost of labor, pounds of milk used and of cheese made, shrinkage, selling price, cost of making, amount of salt used, market to which sold, and general remarks.

Returns, more or less complete, were received from 456 factories, of which one was established in 1850, four in 1844, two in 1855, three in 1856, three in 1857, four in 1858, four in 1859, seventeen in 1860, eighteen in 1861, twenty-five in 1862, one hundred and twelve in 1863, two hundred and eleven in 1864, and fifty-two in 1865.

It will be observed that the greater part have been commenced since the beginning of the war, and that they were evidently made necessary by the scarcity of labor which it occasioned. Of many started in 1864, only a part of the season was reported, while for 1865 only the cost of buildings and apparatus, number of hands employed and number of cows could be given. From these necessary deficiencies of parts of the season, etc., the total summary presents an aggregate of results which would not admit of use in calculating the profits of the business or the general percentages which it involves. We have therefore presented, in a separate table, the individual returns of one hundred and thirty-three factories using the milk of three hundred cows and upwards through the season of 1864, from which the details of the business in the various counties may be studied and compared.

It is to be remarked that some discrepancies between the quantities of cheese made in factories, as shown by these tables, and the quantity reported by farmers and given in the general tables of agricultural statistics will appear.

The instructions directed the amount of cheese made to be reported by the owners of cows, whether made on the premises or at a factory. In the latter case the amount was to be ascertained by computing the share of cheese from the relative amount of milk furnished, or of money received, at a given rate per pound.

The manufacturer of the cheese was required to report, as a part of the statistics of his business (and not as a part of the production of the country in this article), the quantity of cheese made at his factory. This would of course be a duplicate of the quantity reported by the farmers. But it sometimes happened that the owner of the cows neglected to report his share of cheese made at the factory. For this omission no remedy could be applied when the tables were prepared at the office, and on this account the quantity of cheese made, as given in the agricultural tables, falls short of the amount actually produced.

It is further to be observed that the dry summer of 1865, to which the tables refer, tended to reduce the amount of butter and cheese in most localities below the average of common years. In some cases the failure was specified as a third, quarter, etc., and probably the true deficiency from the drouth exceeded twenty-five per cent. in general average of the State.†

* In several of the western counties flocks of sheep were reported as being affected by grub in the head, foot rot, and scab. The cause assigned, by several intelligent persons, was poor keeping, and the aggregation of large flocks in the same enclosure, and a marked improvement was noticed on a removal of these causes. The grub was found to affect lambs more than old sheep, and the disease was noticed as most prevalent in February and March. A farmer in Oakfield, Genesee Co., having a flock of six hundred sheep, cured about one hundred cases of foot rot by using the following: Butter of antimony, 2 oz.; sulphuric acid, 2 oz.; vinegar, 1 pint, mixed and applied two or three times, at intervals of six days. For the scab, lime, salt and sulphur were successfully applied, and cures were effected by washing with strong decoctions of tobacco. For this purpose a vat was used with a perforated board, on which the animal was laid, and the liquid thus prevented from waste.

Among the dairying districts of Central New York, abortion in cows has proved a serious loss to the farmer. In Norway, Herkimer Co., 131 cases were reported as happening from three or four months up to seven and eight. Nearly all of the latter cows were brought to their milk, and about half of the whole number were fit only to be fed for beef. No satisfactory cause has been assigned for this serious casualty.

† The prices at which cheese was sold in 1864 was reported from 379 factories, and ranged from 10 to 30 cents. In two factories it sold at 10, in one at 11, in one at 11½, in two at 12½, in one at 13, in two at 14, in four at 14½, in fifteen at 15, in one at 15½, in eight at 16, in one at 16½, in four at 17, in one at 17½, in twenty-three at 18, in two at 18½, in seventeen at 19, in six at 19½, in two at 19¾, in sixty-nine at 20, in six at 20¼, in twelve at 20½, in nine at 20¾, in thirty-nine at 21, in one at 21 1-5, in ten at 21¼, in two at 21½, in twenty-two at 21¾, in one at 21¾, in eleven at 21¾, in forty-one at 22, in eight at 22¼, in twenty-two at 22½, in one at 22 7-10, in fourteen at 23, in one at 23½, in three at 23½, in two at 23½, in three at 24, in three at 24½, in one at 24¾, in two at 24¾, in two at 25, in one at 26, in one at 27, and in one at 30 cents.

Of the markets to which the cheese of factories was sold, 341 were to New York, five to Philadelphia, three to St. Louis, two to Chicago, two to Cincinnati, one to Buffalo and one to Montreal. The remainder not specified.

The time during which the factories were run averaged from the first week in May to the first week in November.

The quantity of salt used to 100 pounds of cheese was reported from 377 factories. In 101 of these the amount was three pounds; in 88, two and a half; in 51, two and three-quarters; in 40, two and seven tenths; in 19, two and four fifths; in 9, two, and in 6, five. The least quantity used was ¾ of a pound. In Limburg cheese the amount is much larger, being in 12 cases, fourteen; in 10, twelve; in 5, fifteen; in 3, sixteen, and in 1, seventeen pounds.

Domestic Manufactures.—The several State censuses since 1821 have reported the number of yards of cloth of different kinds made in families, with the following results :

MANUFACTURES.—A historical notice of the earlier census returns relating to manufactures having been given in the Census of 1855, (Introduction, pages lv. to lxi,) it is deemed sufficient in this place to refer to that volume for whatever relates to the enumerations previous to 1850. The statistics of manufactures obtained by the Census of 1850, for reasons very generally understood, but never officially stated, were withheld from the public several years, and were not finally published until 1859, when they had lost nearly all their interest for practical applications, and served only for historical reference.*

In the present Census the inquiries were the same as in the last, excepting that there was but one column for entering the amount of capital, the subdivision into capital invested “in real estate” and “in tools and machinery,” being omitted. The classification, as before, was made to correspond with that of the American Patent Office, but separate columns were provided for noting the number of establishments reporting each subject.

The rate of wages of men and women is given in a separate table, and general summaries of classes were added.

With the view of obtaining more definite information concerning certain branches of industry, special blanks were prepared with specific inquiries, and the result of this measure, now first introduced in our Census, was sufficiently complete to justify its continuance in future censuses.†

* The report upon manufactures, when finally sent to the Senate, was ordered to be printed in the usual number only, and therefore remains quite difficult of access to the public at large. It forms Executive Document No. 39, of the second session of 35th Congress, and fills 148 pages.

The States, when arranged in the order of their relative amount of manufactures, show New York at the head of the column, and the aggregates as given in the following table :

† There were eight of these special blanks relating to manufactures, viz :

1. Cheese Factories—more particularly noticed on pages cvi, and 415 and 417.

2. Cotton Mills—the summaries of which are given on page 519.

3. Grist and Flouring Mills—given on pages 520 and 521.

4. Iron Furnaces for Reducing Ore—given on page 522.

5. Lumber Mills—given on pages 523—526.

6. Petroleum Refineries—(Not issued, the statistics returned on the general blank for manufactures).

7. Paper Mills—given on pages 527—529.

8. Tanneries—given on pages 530—532.

9. Woolen Mills—given on pages 533—535.

The present Census embraces returns from 24,527 establishments, with a capital of $227,674,187, and an aggregate value of product amounting to $463,609,877. The statistics reported by the special blanks are included in these totals.

The Federal Census of 1860 reported 22,624 establishments, $172,895,652 capital, and $378,870,930 of products. When it is considered that the Census of 1865 refers to the year 1864, and a period when the best energies of the nation were being applied in suppressing the Southern rebellion, this extraordinary increase affords a striking evidence of the immense resources of the State of New York. A part of the increase in values is doubtless to be attributed to the general advance of prices; but the growing number of establishments clearly indicates an expansion of business, and a corresponding return of profits.

The Diocese of New York has 32 city, and 62 country churches, 25 chapels, 24 institutions, 15 select schools, 35 parish schools and 11 asylums and hospitals.

That of Albany has about 120 churches, 8 chapels, about 60 stations, 3 academies for boys, and 2 for girls, and 6 orphan asylums, besides a large number of parochial schools.

That of Buffalo has 160 churches, 30 stations, 4 ecclesiastical institutions, 9 male and 17 female religious institutions, 5 male and 17 female literary institutions, and 14 charitable institutions. It claims a Catholic population of 200,000.

That of Brooklyn has 49 churches, 11 institutions and 14 parish schools.

EDUCATIONAL STATISTICS.—In the State Census of 1855 inquiries were made concerning the materials, condition and value of public school houses. As these facts come within the province of the Department of Public Instruction, and as the data relating to academies and higher literary institutions of the State are mostly included in the reports made to the Regents of the University, it was thought proper to omit these, and to include in the Census only such inquiries as relate to unincorporated and private seminaries from which no official reports are otherwise made.*

The number reported was 110, of which 10 were owned by stock companies, 15 by churches and religious bodies and 84 by individuals. Their date of establishment was as follows: 1828, one; 1832, one; 1834, one; 1835, two; 1836, one; 1837, one; 1838, two; 1839, one; 1840, one; 1845, one; 1849, two; 1850, five; 1851, three; 1852, four; 1853, three; 1854, one; 1855, seven; 1856, three; 1858, four; 1859, four; 1860, four; 1861, six; 1862, two; 1863, nine.

POOR HOUSES, ORPHAN ASYLUMS AND HOSPITALS.—No inquiries relating to these institutions were made by the Census on former occasions, and the statistics given in the present volume therefore stand without data for previous comparison. The officers having charge cheerfully responded to the inquiries, with scarcely an exception; and the information thus obtained will, it is believed, prove reliable and useful for present use and future reference.

INNS, STORES AND GROCERIES.—Returns having been made under these heads in 1845 and 1855, it was deemed proper to obtain data for comparison in the present Census. The result was as follows:

Hotels, inns and taverns.....	5,813	6,026	10,019
Wholesale stores.....	2,540	4,836	4,835
Retail stores.....	12,257	22,607	26,593
Groceries.....	5,860	10,421	10,557

NEWSPAPERS AND OTHER PERIODICALS.—These statistics were obtained in the same manner as in the last State Census, and fourteen volumes of specimen numbers, embracing very nearly the entire series, with a few of later issue not embraced in the tables, have been placed in the State library. The corresponding series in 1855 filled eleven volumes.

In 1775 there were 4 newspapers printed in the colony of New York. In 1810 there were 66 papers, with an aggregate annual circulation of 7,139,200 sheets. In 1828 there were 161 newspapers and periodicals, and in 1832 the number had increased to 268. In 1839 there were 307 periodicals. The number and total annual circulation as shown by successive census returns have since been as follows:

* The proceedings of the University Convention of 1865 contain statistics of a highly authentic and interesting character relating to collegiate education and the attendance of students from New York in the several colleges of other States. It was prepared by Mr. D. J. Pratt, Assistant Secretary of the Regents of the University, from the catalogues of colleges and other sources of information. The general totals show that 396 students from New York State were attending in New England colleges; 960 in New York; 65 in New Jersey; 18 in Pennsylvania; 29 in Ohio; 24 in Michigan; 13 in Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin colleges. Total, 1,505.

INDIAN CENSUS.—The Census of Indians residing upon Reservations is taken by enumerators appointed by the Secretary of State and paid directly from the State treasury. Of the $500 appropriated for this purpose but $288 was used. Upon the Allegany, Cattaraugus, Tonawanda and Tuscarora Reservations intelligent and educated members of the tribe were appointed to take the census, and in the others citizens were commissioned to perform this duty. The returns, with comparisons from the Censuses of 1845 and 1855, are fully given on pages 600–607. It will be observed that the number of Indians is slowly increasing, with a corresponding improvement in their resources and industrial products, and that these statistics encourage the hope of much greater advancement in material prosperity and intellectual attainments.

STATISTICS OF THE WAR.

In the Appendix we have presented statistics relating to the war as fully as the materials reported would allow. From reasons fully stated elsewhere, these are not so complete as could be wished, but they are probably as accurate as could under the most favorable circumstances be obtained through the agency of the Census. By the favor of James M. Moore, Brevet Lt. Col. and Assist. Q. M. of the Army, we have been enabled to present in this connection some data obtained by Government concerning the burial of New York soldiers in the cemeteries adjacent to hospitals and battle-fields, which have an interesting relation to these returns. Yet even the most careful researches sustained by the highest authority must fail in attempting to discover the full and accurate amount of loss in human life which the late war has occasioned.

* In these estimates the number whose circulation was not reported is assumed to average the same as those of which the extent of the edition of each issue is given.

† Of one the interval of publication was not reported.
